

May 30, 2023

Mr. Charles Randolph, CPP
President
International Protective Security Board (IPSB)

Dear Mr. Randolph and Board Members of the IPSB

The BEPP is committed to inclusion as one of its guiding principles. In that spirit of partnership, we invite the IPSB to join our significant efforts in developing the proposed ANSI "Standard for Providing Executive Protection."

As you know, the BEPP is an organization with a clear and focused mission to enhance the Executive Protection industry, not unlike the IPSB mission. With the BEPP developing a universal, nationally recognized Standard for protective operations, everyone benefits both domestically and internationally! "ANSI promotes the use of US Standards, internationally."

With additional industry collaborations and partnerships, we can increase the review and analysis of the Standard beyond the 180 BEPP industry leaders currently involved. We strongly feel that only through comprehensive review can the standard withstand scrutiny and acceptance.

The BEPP will like to offer the IPSB Board "coauthor" title to the future Standard in recognition of this proposed partnership. The IPSB's name will also appear alongside the BEPP's name in the actual ANSI standard.

An effective partnership between the BEPP and IPSB cannot be overstated. As a result of a partnership, the executive protection industry is poised for greater alignment and a more unified voice for standardization.

As the proposed Standard is already in development, the BEPP respectfully requests that a response be provided by the end of Quarter 2 (June 30, 2022).

On behalf of the BEPP, I would like to thank you for taking the time to consider this proposal. Our organization looks forward to collaborating with organizations (IPSB) and individuals who share the same commitment to advancing the industry.

Warm Regards,

James Cameron, CPP
President/Chairman
Board of Executive Protection Professionals
www.ep-board.org
james@ep-board.org